Mobile App

The Georgia Department of Public Safety (DPS), along with the Georgia Bureau of Investigation (GBI) and the Georgia Emergency Management and Homeland Security Agency (GEMA/HS) have led efforts to implement the “See Something, Send Something” system in Georgia.

“See Something, Send Something” provides a platform to capture a photo of suspicious activity or send in information with written text. Information received in the app is sent directly to the Georgia Information Sharing and Analysis Center (GISAC) where the tips can be evaluated and provided to law enforcement across the state as needed.

The application is available at no cost for iPhone and Android phone users, as well as iPad users.

Disaster Mental Health Website

<http://georgiadisaster.info/>

The screenshot shows a web browser displaying the Georgia Disaster Mental Health website. The browser's address bar shows the URL <http://georgiadisaster.info/>. The website header features the logos for the Georgia Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Disabilities (DBHDD) and the Georgia Department of Public Health (DPH). A search bar with the text "Google Custom Search" is located on the right. Below the header is a navigation menu with links: Home, Public, Training, Professionals, Business, Military, Students, Voices of Recovery, Planning Resources, Radar, and Apps. The main banner area has a large image of a person's face with the text "Georgia Disaster Mental Health" and a smaller logo for DBHDD with the text "Disaster Mental Health" and the website URL www.georgiadisaster.info/. Below the banner is a news ticker with two items: "View News and Updates on Hurricane Michael: <https://t.co/OoPx857vPD>" and "The Georgia Hospital Association has launched a website to address the opioid crisis: <https://t.co/O6xA68ikyy>". The main content area is divided into two columns. The left column features a logo for the "Georgia Crisis & Access Line" (1-800-715-4225) and a large, abstract, colorful painting of a person's face. The right column features a logo for the "Georgia Healthcare Alliance" (GHA) and a video player titled "What's In Your Kit?" showing a woman in a red shirt holding a microphone. Below the video player is a link to "Our Youtube Channel". The bottom of the screenshot shows a Windows taskbar with various application icons.

Disasters come in many forms. They may occur suddenly or with advance warning. Disasters may be human-caused or an act of nature. Some disasters have names like Katrina or flight numbers while others have faces that we see on the television. Many are known simply as house fires or accidents. All involve sudden loss and profound tragedy in people's lives. Whether airplane crashes, hurricanes, infectious disease, school shootings, acts of terrorism, or something else, disasters have both physical and mental health components and consequences. This site, sponsored by the Georgia Department of Public Health and the Georgia Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Disabilities (DBHDD) addresses the Mental Health components of disasters.

U.S. Healthcare

Infection Prevention and Control Considerations

Steps that facilities should implement as a routine part of triage to quickly identify, isolate, and inform public health authorities about patients who may have communicable infections:

- Ask about and document international travel histories at initial triage. This information can alert healthcare personnel to the possibility of communicable infections, such as viral hemorrhagic fevers or emerging respiratory viruses, and other health conditions, such as malaria, that need specific treatment.
- Identify patients who have fever and other signs and symptoms of infection and might warrant isolation pending further evaluation.
- Post contact information in easily visible locations for infection control personnel and the local public health jurisdiction for reporting of communicable diseases.

2 - Isolate

3 – Inform:

Travel Clinical Assistant (TCA)

The Travel Clinical Assistant provides post-travel clinical information on travel-related diseases for 231 countries. Diseases with recent outbreaks occurring in the last 2 years are listed first. For recent outbreaks, information on clinical symptoms, transmission modes, infection control, and reporting to the Georgia Department of Public Health are provided. The second table lists additional endemic and/or travel-related diseases that may be acquired by travelers to a country. Disease links are provided for additional information on symptoms, transmission, testing, and/or treatment.

WebEOC Transition Takes Place 6/1/19

From the GHA911 WebEOC platform

The screenshot shows the GHA911 WebEOC platform interface. The top navigation bar includes links for Home, EMERGENCY OPS, Resources, File Library, Notifications, Administration, My Accounts, and Super Admin. The main content area is titled "WebEOC Healthcare Incident Boards" and "Emergency Operations >> WebEOC Management". It features a "Login to Existing WebEOC Incident Discussion" section with a "Select Incidents" dropdown and a "WebEOC Login" button. Below this is a "Create a New WebEOC Incident" section with a form for Incident Name, Description, Access (My Facility Only, Regional / Statewide), Incident Start, Incident Type (Exercise, Real World), Category, and Auto Login. An "Add New Incident Discussion" button is at the bottom of the form. To the right, there are sections for "Usage Reports" and "Useful Links".

to the DPH WebEOC 8.4 Platform

The screenshot shows the DPH WebEOC 8.4 Platform login page. The page has a blue background with a large key icon. The main heading is "WebEOC 8.4 Login". Below it, there is a text box for "For assistance contact us at:" followed by a link to "support@intermedix.com". An "Accept" button is located below the link. At the bottom, it says "Powered by intermedix" and "© 2017 ESH Acquisition Inc. All rights reserved."
